"We can't take him without you putting him in a plastic sack."

THE NEWTON ON GIRLS

Helmut Newton can transform women. With that in mind, we asked him to photograph six women who are dear to our hearts—Playmates, in fact—and work his flashy way with them. Newton works in a world of careful contrivance filled with aberrance and artifice. His photos often describe the difference between nude and naked. The former is being seen without clothes on, the latter is being caught with nothing on. This is an essential law of Newtonian physics.

At left, Carrie Stevens points out a sudden and disturbing light in the Los Angeles sky. Below, Barbara Moore seems to be on a crusade. She may be an excellent motivational speaker, but she may very well be preaching to the converted.

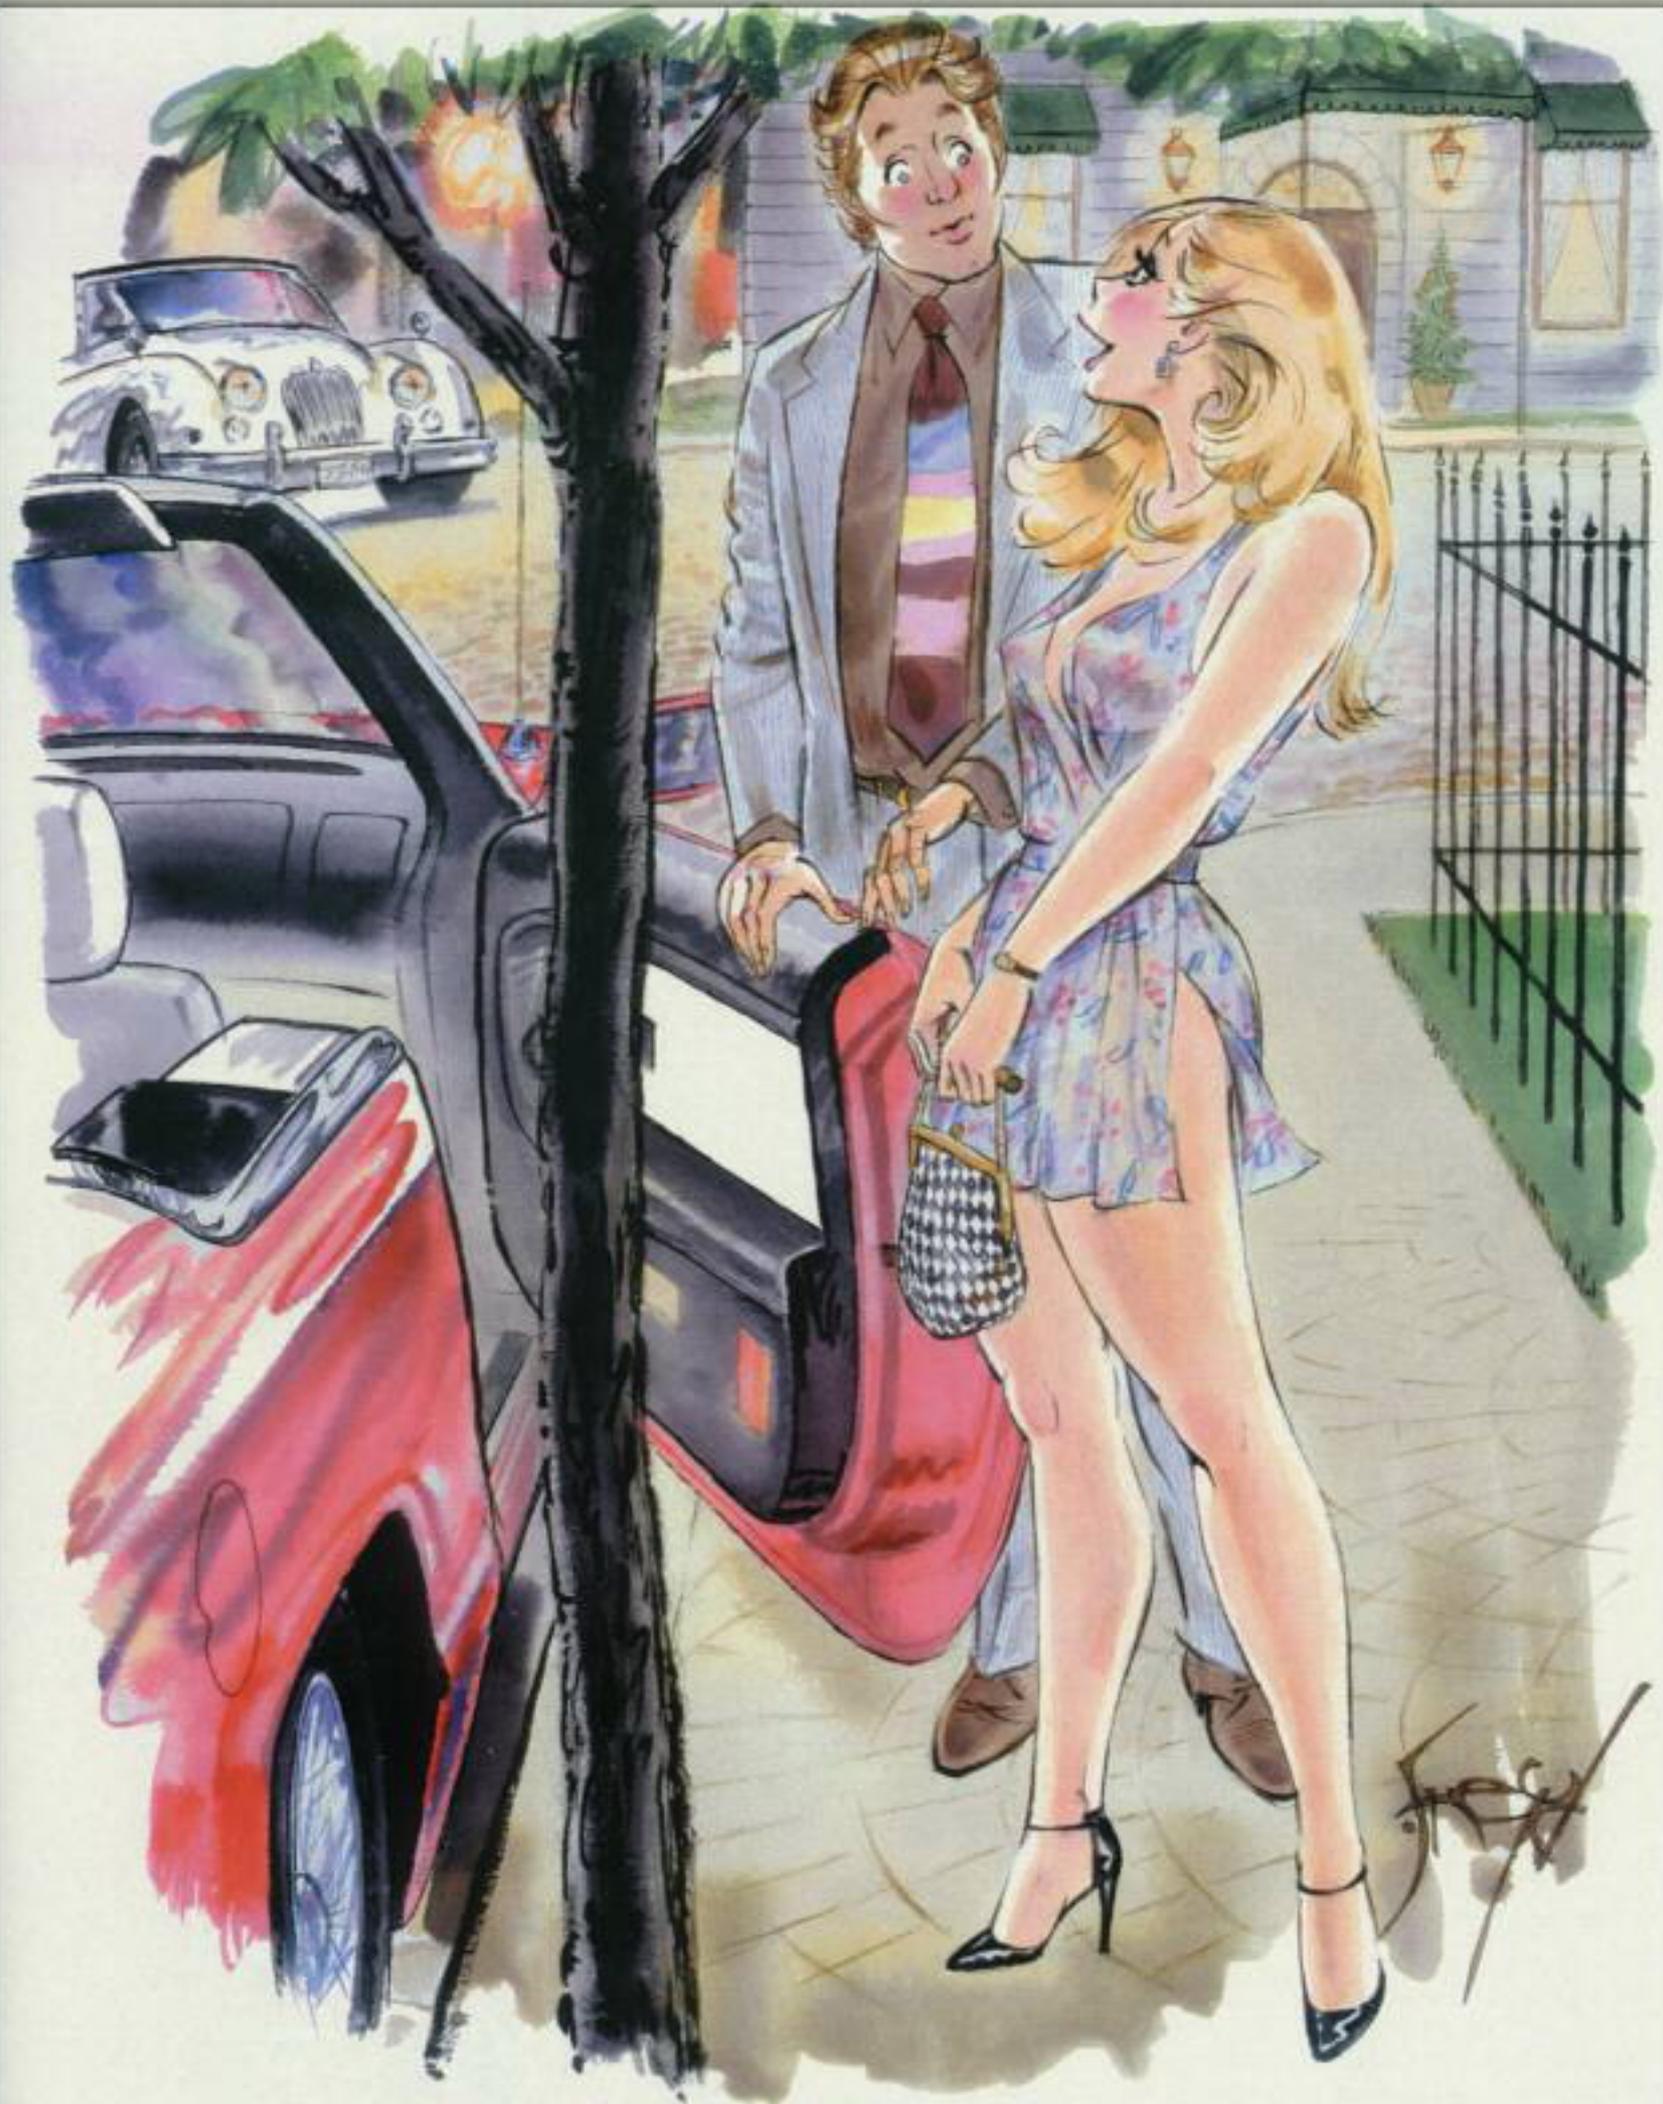

"I'd ask you in for a drink but my husband's a light sleeper."

PLAYBOY'S PARTY JOKES

A matron sitting at the counter of a sandwich shop was obviously annoyed by the cigarette smoke from the young woman seated beside her. The older woman turned to the girl and bellowed, "Young lady, I would rather commit adultery than smoke!"

"So would I," the girl replied with a wry smile, "but there just isn't enough time during a coffee break."

How does a single woman get rid of a cockroach? She asks for a commitment.

BATTLE OF THE SEXES DEPARTMENT, C'EST LA DIFFÉRENCE DIVISION: A man was driving up a steep, narrow mountain road. A woman approached in the opposite direction. As they passed each other the woman leaned out the window and yelled, "Pig!" The man immediately leaned out his window, shot her the finger and hollered, "Bitch!"

They each continued on their way. As the man rounded the next bend he ran into a pig in the middle of the road.

An Army grunt stands in the rain after marching 12 miles with a 35-pound pack on his back and says, "God, this is shit."

An Army Airborne recruit stands in the rain after jumping from an airplane and marching 18 miles with a 45-pound pack on his back and says with a smile, "God, this is the shit."

An Army Airborne Ranger lies in the mud after jumping from a plane into a swamp and marching 25 miles at night past the enemy with a 55-pound pack on his back and says with a grin, "God, I love this shit!"

A Green Beret kneels in the stinking mud of a swamp with a 65-pound pack on his back after jumping from an airplane into the ocean, swimming ten miles to the swamp and crawling 30 miles through the brush to assault the enemy camp and says with a passionate snarl, "God, give me some more of this shit!"

An Air Force recruit sits in an easy chair in his air-conditioned, carpeted quarters and says, "The cable's out? What kind of shit is this?"

John returned home late and found a naked man in his wife's bedroom closet.

"Hey, what are you doing in there?"

"I'm riding a bus."

"That's a stupid thing to say!"

"That's a stupid thing to ask!"

THIS MONTH'S MOST FREQUENT SUBMISSION: A beautiful redhead sat down at the bar in a rural pub and gestured seductively to the barman. When he came over to her, she signaled for him to bring his face close to hers. "Are you the manager?" she asked, softly stroking his face with both hands.

"Actually, no," he replied.

"Can you get him for me? I need to speak to him," she purred, running her hands up into his hair.

"I'm afraid I can't," the barman answered hoarsely. "Is there anything I can do?"

"Yes there is. I need you to give him a message," she continued huskily, popping a couple of fingers into his mouth and allowing him to suck them gently. "Tell him there's no toilet paper in the ladies' room."

What does a blonde say when she sees a banana peel on the ground? "Oh no, I'm going to slip and fall again!"

John Glenn's custom space shuttle equipment:

- All important devices are operated by the Clapper.
- Thermostat is set at 80 degrees.
- Little bowls of hard candy are placed around the ship.
- Bumper sticker: ASK ME ABOUT MY GRANDCHILDREN.
- Space pants go up to armpits.
- Turn signal stays on for entire mission.

Why do so many women fake orgasms? Because so many men fake foreplay.

Bill Gates and the president of GM were attending a Q. and A. session during a business seminar. In answering a question from the audience, Gates boasted about the innovations his company had made. "If GM had kept up with technology the way the computer industry has," Gates concluded, "we'd be driving $25 cars that get 1000 miles per gallon."

"Yes, I suppose that's true," the GM executive agreed. "But would you really want your car to crash twice a day?"

PLAYMATE
OF THE YEAR
karen mc dougal takes a bow

Last December, Karen McDougal went on a modeling assignment to Cabo San Lucas and was surprised at the celebrity welcome she received. "Everyone there seemed to know who I am," says Miss December 1997. "I was out dancing and everybody was bringing me things to sign. I guess Playboy Mexico had just come out and people recognized me." Back in the U.S.A., where the December issue had already been out for weeks, Karenmania was sweeping the nation. The former preschool teacher with the Irish eyes, Cherokee cheekbones and "bubble butt" was an overwhelming favorite in the PLAYBOY Readers' Poll, on the Internet and with viewers of Playboy TV.

WHO'S THE FAIREST?

When author Steve Sullivan set out to write Glamour Girls of the Century: The 1000 Greatest Beauties and Bombshells of the Ages, he knew it would be "an audacious undertaking." After all, how do you compare such icons as Betty Grable and Brigitte Bardot, or Raquel Welch and Princess Diana?

But Sullivan persevered. Soliciting votes from more than 1200 experts and fans, he culled a final lineup that includes—no surprise here—168 Playmates. Of the first five, three—Marilyn Monroe (1), Jayne Mansfield (3) and Bettie

Page (5)—have appeared on PLAYBOY's Centerfold, while 27 other Playmates made Sullivan's top 100. An interesting footnote: Miss December 1968 Cynthia Myers (whom Sullivan deems "the most astonishing Playmate in PLAYBOY history") is ranked number 12, one ahead of Cindy Crawford (who is not a Play-

THE STARMAKER

What do Miss November 1992 Stephanie Adams, Miss August 1993 Jennifer Lavoie and Miss January 1998 Heather Kozar have in common? They were all discovered by PLAYBOY scout and producer Debbie May, who holds casting calls for models and Playmate prospects in Manhattan as often as once a month. Debbie's keen eye for PLAYBOY quality should come as no surprise: She debuted on these pages as one of our Babes of Broadway back in October 1984. (She went by the name Debbie Hinchcliffe.) After that, Deb went the movie route, landing gigs that include playing De Niro's date in Goodfellas and Ellen Barkin's body double in Sea of Love. She soon opened her own talent agency, where she specialized in seeking out—and cultivating—PLAYBOY talent. When she sent us photos of her clientele, we knew we had to have her in our camp. Nowadays, Debbie is most at home behind the still camera, producing photo shoots for PLAYBOY's newsstand specials, such as the Wet & Wild and Lingerie issues.

22 YEARS AGO THIS MONTH

From cover to cover it was a star-spangled issue, with satire by Art Buchwald, an excerpt from Ron Kovic's Born on the Fourth of July and a valentine to the hot dog. So who better to grace the July 1976 bicentennial Centerfold than Deborah Borkman, a part-Swedish, part-Japanese, first-generation American born in Virginia? Our favorite twist: As a kid, Deborah loved climbing the old neighborhood cherry tree. "I would sit up there in the summer and look at the sky," she told us at the time. "That's where I found peace of mind."

All-American girl.

What's her favorite part of the process? "Shopping for the models' clothing," she says, "whether it's lingerie or bathing suits. Even on a tight budget, I can't stop myself from buying the best stuff." It shows, Deb.

NEW KID ON THE BLOCK

When the editors of the new Playboy Norway photographed their first Playmate of the Month atop a glacier, they wondered how they would follow up such a stunt for Centerfold number two. The answer: by jetting Playmate Beatrice Peterson to PLAYBOY's Chicago headquarters, to be shot by veteran photographer Richard Fegley. "We wanted to show the sense of community among the worldwide editions of PLAYBOY," says Nils Bjørnæs, editor of Playboy Norway. "Going to the place where PLAYBOY was born did just that."

Beatrice hails from the town of Tønsberg, Norway—about 100 miles south of Oslo—where, "like most Norwegian women, girls don't like to stand out." Clearly an exception to the rule, Beatrice enjoyed her whirlwind Windy City jaunt. "But," she says, "I didn't get to do a lot of sight-seeing. Being photographed for PLAYBOY is not a vacation—it's hard work. Then again, everyone made me feel so relaxed. I instantly felt like part of the Playmate family."

My Favorite Playmate
By Buck Henry

"The name that instantly comes to mind is Christa Speck—or, I should say, the redoubtable Christa Speck. If you want to know why, just look at her pictures. Simply unforgettable. She became a Playmate in September 1961, just after I worked for Steve Allen in Los Angeles but before I went to New York to work for Garry Moore. After that time, I got to know most of the Playmates socially, so I wouldn't deign to pick a favorite. I don't need any of them mad at me, thank you."

Christa Speck was ultimately selected as Playmate of the Year in 1962.

FAN MAIL

Dear Playmate News:

I am an airborne paratrooper stationed in Italy and currently deployed in Bosnia. Today I received in the mail the March 1995 issue of PLAYBOY from a friend. When I turned to the Centerfold, my heart stopped at the sight of Stacy Sanches. She is a stunning woman from head to toe, but it is her eyes that forced me to catch my breath—I could lose myself staring into them. Stacy undoubtedly knows how beautiful she is, but I would truly appreciate it if you would let her know just how I feel.—Breathless in Bosnia

Dear Rachel
Jeán Marteen:

As a sailor in the Navy, I spend lots of time at sea. I try to keep beautiful women like you in my heart while I am there. It just seems to help. I can't tell you how much I miss seeing you in PLAYBOY. I even e-mailed PLAYBOY and asked them to produce a new video of you. Do you think they might? I have 750 shipmates who would probably sign a petition backing up my request.—A fan in the Pacific

PATTI REYNOLDS:

"I love the Nineties Playmates. I'm friends with a lot of them. But with all due respect, we girls of the Sixties were really the girls next door."

QUOTE UNQUOTE

Since her appearance as Miss July 1997, 21-year-old Daphnee Lynn Duplaix has quickly moved up the modeling ladder—yes, that was her in the Tommy Hilfiger commercial on Super Bowl Sunday. We dialed up Daphne in Los Angeles for some informal sex chat.

Q: Describe your perfect mate in the terms of a personal ad.

A: "Looking for a tall, dark, handsome bald man with a great personality, a sense of humor and beautiful eyes."

Q: Bald?

A: Yep. But he has to be shaved bald—on purpose—just like my boyfriend.

Q: Let's move to the lower anatomy. Does size matter?

A: No. Like they say, it's the motion of the ocean.

Q: What music gets you hot?

A: Maxwell. He's like Prince, only jazzy and smooth. And his words are really sexy.

Q: What's the secret to seducing Daphnee Duplaix?

A: Talking sexy without being vulgar, giving massages—I'm a sucker for massages—and being willing to cook and clean the house once in a while. Is that too much to ask?

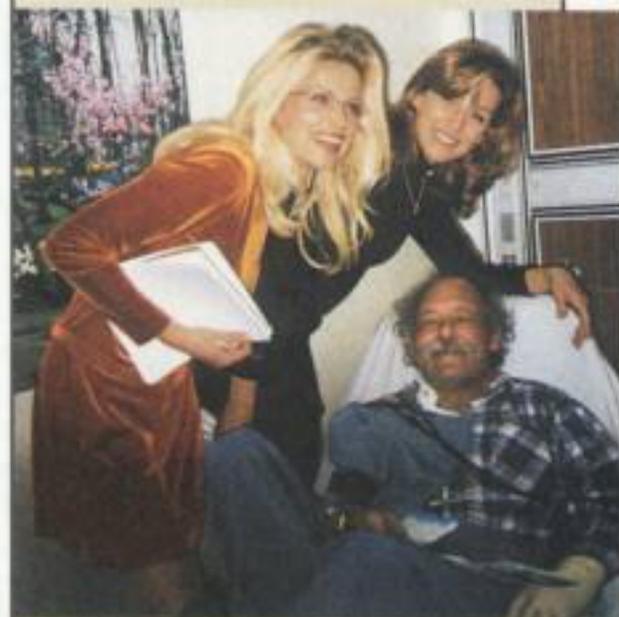

PLAYMATE GOSSIP

Barbara Moore has a cameo in the forthcoming feature film Five Aces. Her scene takes place in a bar, where she has a tête-à-tête with Charlie Sheen. . . .

Marliece Andrada and her Baywatch cohort Traci Bingham recently visited the New York Stock Exchange, where they met its chairman and president and were taken onto the floor to witness firsthand the trading of Playboy stock. No jokes about round figures and markets going bust, thank you. . . .

1995 PMOY Julie Lynn Cialini co-stars on the erotic-mystery CD-ROM Blue Heat (Orion Interactive), in which the Los Angeles police search for a serial killer who's targeting the city's sexiest models. . . .

Victoria Zdrok and Danelle Folta dropped in on patients and staff at the Brooklyn Veterans Affairs Medical Center in New York, where they made the rounds and signed autographs. Similar Playmate appearances took place at vet hospitals in Chicago, Los Angeles and Atlanta, as part of the 32-year-old Operation Playmate project. . . . Alice Denham has completed a memoir, Shabby Gentleel, about her childhood in the South. Alice's previous books include the novels My Darling From the Lions and Amo, the latter about a feminist Centerfold from outer space. Only in America.

Zdrok, Folta and a grateful veteran.

PLAYMATE TRIVIA

Hail to the Chiefesses

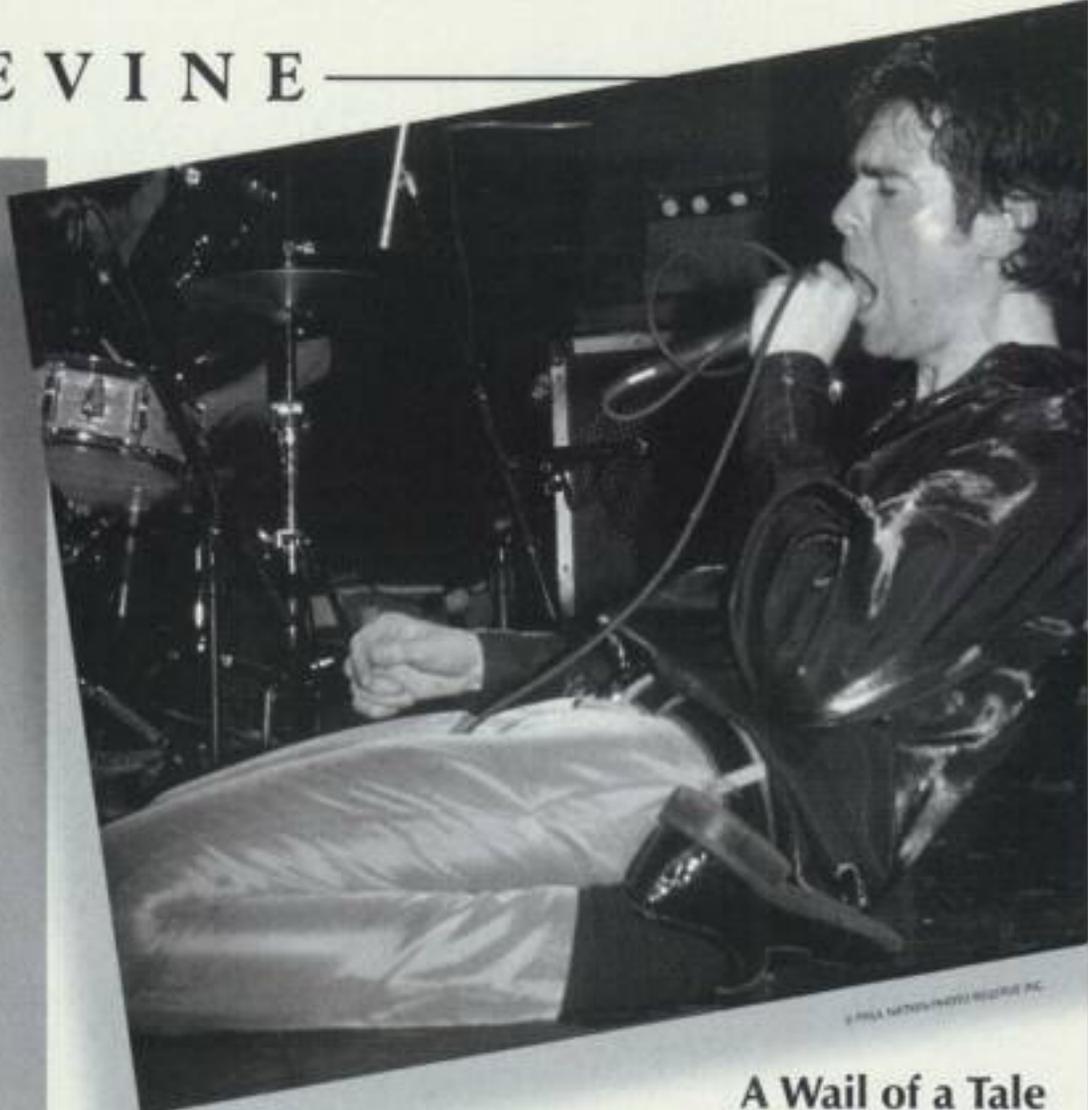

How many Playmates share surnames with U.S. presidents? Eighteen: Adams (2), Arthur (1), Carter (2), Cleveland (1), Harrison (1), Jackson (2), Johnson (3), Monroe (1), Taylor (3), Tyler (1)—and the October 1967 Playmate was Reagan Wilson.

Shannon Boots Up

SHANNON O'KEEFE danced in Playboy productions in Reno and Lake Tahoe.

Now you can catch her kicking up her heels at Harrah's Reno in Lipstick. Kisses to her.

A Wail of a Tale

JON SPENCER went down when the blues hit him and his band, the Blues Explosion. But that was just a bit of irreverence. A follow-up to Now I Got Worry will be out in September. Get ready.

The Sweeter the Berry

HALLE BERRY starred in Oprah Winfrey's miniseries The Wedding and can now be seen in the Warren Beatty comedy Bulworth. For us, she has glamour to spare in rhinestones.

Beached Babe

Hawaii surfer and model SUNMOON PERREAULT is checking the sand for shells. You can say aloha to her in bikini calendars or catch her in the film Danger in Paradise.
